Little-known fact:

African and Middle Eastern Jews alone make up about one-quarter of the American Jewish community and half of Israel's Jews.

The Flying Camel
Essays on Identity by Women of North African and Middle Eastern Jewish Heritage

Edited by Loolwa Khazzoom

THE FIRST ANTHOLOGY BY AND ABOUT JEWISH WOMEN OF COLOR

Many of us have stereotypes of what “Jewish” looks like – and for many of us that image is white and European. Yet, with the blossoming Jewish multiculturalism movement, led by the dynamic Loolwa Khazzoom, the myth of a “monolithic Jewish community” is about to be debunked. The Flying Camel reveals and explores the often-hidden experiences and identities of Jewish women descended from North Africa and the Middle East. Writing from their unique perspectives, contributors bridge divisions between East and West, “foreign” and “familiar.” A tender, honest, and, above all, brave collection, this work offers a new, critical perspective on the interplay of Arab and Jew and the complexities of a people.

“A provocative collection of writings that attempt to untangle complicated webs of anti-Semitism, racism, and misogyny, The Flying Camel presents a challenging introduction to complex struggles around issues of identity and community.” —Angela Davis

“What a treasure this book holds! For many of us whose Eastern European culture has for so long been taken as the Jewish norm, The Flying Camel provides the missing tiles in the mosaic puzzle which is the global story of Jewish women’s lives.” —Susan Weidman Schneider, Editor-in-Chief, Lilith magazine

About the author
